gard to the other amendments. The only one of these that is at all a subject of controversy is the amendment prescribing the electorate which shall be permitted to participate in the special election of September, 1914. The House bill admitted all voters who could qualify for the election under the general law. On Wednesday the Senate adopted by a narrow majority a substitute offered by Senator Mapp, permitting all persons to participate who were registered January 1, 1914, and all who registered January 1, 1914, and all who may qualify for the election later under the general law.

Amends Qualification Clause. By a unanimous vote yesterday, the enate reconsidered the Mapp amendment, and adopted in its place a sub-stitute offered jointly by Senators Tav-enner and Fletcher, limiting the elec-torate to:

'All persons who were qualified to "All persons who were qualified to vote at the regular November election in 1913, and all other persons who are otherwise qualified and have personally paid at least six months prior to the second Tuesday in June, 1914, all state poil taxes assessed or assessable against them during the three years next preceding the year 1914, and all such other persons who shall become of lawful age at a time when no canisuch other persons who shall become of lawful age at a time when no capitation tax was assessable against them for the year 1913, and shall thereafter register by reason of becoming of lawful age prior to the date herein fixed for the holding of said election."

The effect of this substitute is to restrict participation in the special elec-the elect of this substitute is to re-strict participation in the special elec-tion to those who are now regularly qualified voters and those minors who may between now and the election reach their majority and qualify under the general law. The Mapp amend-ment made it possible for veters to qualify by paying their pull taxes. qualify by paying their poll taxes up to May 3, 1914.

Further Change Unlikely.

The unanimity with which both factions in the Senate agreed to accept the Tavenner-Fletcher substitute makes it unlikely that a conference committee will undertake to tamper further with the qualification clause.

The ameniment which substitutes on The amendment which substitutes on the ballots the words "local option" for the words "against State-wide promibition" is regarded by the prohibi-tion forces as immaterial, and will in tion forces as immaterial, and will in all probability remain undisturbed. Senator West's clder amendment, in-corporated in the bill by the Senate, was made the subject yesterday of considerable criticism by a Senator who voted for the bill on the final roll. call. The amendment directs that nothing in the enabling act shall be construed as affecting in any way the present regulations affecting the manufacture and sale of apple cider, and will, according to the Senator referred in the big sale.

amendments, it is believed, will be disturbed. It was stated in so many words on the fleor of the Senate on Wednesday, by a prohibition Senator, that, while the wine amendment was obnexious to the prohibition elements, that faction will insist in retaining the second of the second case. that faction will insist in retaining it is spart of the bill, fearing that without it the chance of ratification by the people would be impaired. The same peasens, it is believed, will operate to protect the amendment exempting cider.

Let me go, the day is breaking;
Dear wife and children, let me go
We have spent a night of waking
In the wilderness below.
Upward now, I wend my way;
Part we here at break of day,

Let me go, I may not tarry, Wrestling thus with doubt and fears;
Angels wait my oul to carry,
Where my Lord appears.
Friends and kindred, weep not so;
If you love me, let me go.

We have traveled long together,
Hand in hand and heart in heart,
Both through fair and stormy
